

Event Facility Rental Rules & Procedure

In 1937, architect Frank Lloyd Wright began the design for Taliesin West in the desert foothills of the McDowell Mountains. Taliesin, meaning “shining brow,” was designed to house Wright’s winter home, studio, and architectural laboratory, which resided at the property from November to April of each year (and continues today as the School of Architecture at Taliesin). Each detail of the complex was designed by Wright and his apprentices to be in harmony with the surrounding environment. Wright used timber beam construction, stone sourced from the site, and a concrete mix incorporating sands from the nearby washes to construct the buildings. The whole complex seems to be one with the landscape. Using overlapping grids to lay out the site, the buildings, outdoor rooms, and landscaped terraces were designed to frame Wright’s favorite views of the desert. Boulders, some with Hohokam petroglyphs, were placed at strategic points within the landscape as a reminder of the site’s Native American history. Taliesin West was designated a National Historic Landmark in 1982.

Exclusivity

The event space you rent is private to your group, while simultaneous events or public tours may occur at Taliesin West. To provide your group with exclusivity to all of Taliesin West event spaces, a buy-out of the property is required.

Cabaret: The Cabaret Theater is where Wright's love of Asian art is most elaborately illustrated, with a large Chinese dragon motif emblazoned on the double doors and the central display of a Ming Dynasty cast-iron Buddha head. The cabaret allows your guests to make use of original Wrightdesigned chairs, seats, and tables, while the unique shape and construction of the space create optimal acoustics so that someone sitting in the back row can hear a faint whisper from the stage.

(Indoor space seated 50/standing 60)

Cabaret Terrace: Your guests will savor their time on the Cabaret Terrace surrounded by Wright's famous organic architecture. The panoramic views overlooking the Sonoran Desert and the lights of Scottsdale create the perfect intimate setting for your event. (Outdoor space seated 110 /standing 125; limited availability)

Garden Living Room:

The Garden Room was and remains the showpiece of Taliesin West, with its dramatic canted roof. It's the space where Wright, his family, guests, and apprentices would casually socialize every weekend. Designed and remodeled continually by Wright, it evolved from an open patio facing the original vegetable garden into a spacious enclosed room furnished entirely with Wright-designed furniture and original accessories. This is the perfect space for discerning guests desiring a uniquely Wright experience.

(Indoor seated 16; standing 40)

Garden Room Lawn: Facing the Garden Room, and originally the vegetable garden that provided fresh produce for the community, this Japanese-inspired garden now comprises a beautiful lawn flanked by historic Wright-designed Sprites from Midway Gardens. (Outdoor seated 50/standing 70)

Garden Squares: 'Aiming for the Mark', a bronze sculpture of an archer created by Wright's apprentice Heloise Crista, welcomes you to the Garden Squares. This vast event space at the heart of Taliesin West is surrounded by the Pavilion, Wright's office, and the Drafting Studio, so that your guests are immersed in all things Frank Lloyd Wright. This space is large enough for many events. you can dream up. (Outdoor seated 250/standing 350)

Kiva: The Kiva, which gets its name from an underground chamber used by Pueblo Indians for religious rites, was one of the first structures built on the property. It has served as a dining room, movie viewing room, lounge, and library. This hidden treasure has five different lighting techniques designed by Wright which create an inviting ambiance for any select event. (Indoor, seated 15/standing 20)

Music Pavilion: Opened in 1957, this is the last structure Wright added to Taliesin West. A symphony of red seats, curtains, and carpeting celebrates what Wright believed to be one of the life-giving colors of creation. The Pavilion continues to function as a multi-purpose hall for exhibitions, concerts, parties, and public meetings. (Indoor seated dinner 130 /standing 175/ theatre seating 108)

Pavilion Terrace: Situated just outside the Music Pavilion, the Pavilion Terrace features Wright's former apprentice Heloise Crista's many sculpture masterpieces. Take in breathtaking views of the Valley from this serene space. (Outdoor seated 50/standing 65)

Prow & Sunken Garden/ Sunset Terrace: The Sunset Terrace is a triangular terrace that steps down gradually to the Prow. On the east, the terrace faces the garden room (1940), the Wright family's living quarters. At the front of Wright's desert laboratory masterpiece is the Prow, a triangular garden and lawn with geometric beds filled with native plants that extends out to the view that Wright called “standing on the rim of the world.” There is no better view in the Valley than the Prow at sunset, while the main buildings Taliesin West and the backdrop of the McDowell Mountains softly change color as day flows into evening. The Prow is a full 360 degrees of splendor and awe. (Outdoor seated 200/standing 250)
